

Disability Employment Mark (Local Authority Version) Eligibility Criteria

NB: The following criteria framework is specific to supported businesses based with Local Authorities. If you are not part of a Local Authority, please ask to see the framework specific to Social Enterprises.

Principles

- The Disability Employment Mark (DEM) is a standard for supported businesses that primarily deliver social value through the employment of disabled people or long-term health conditions: it provides public reassurance that a product or service comes from a supported business that goes above and beyond required expectations for employers, to create a supportive environment for disabled employees.
- Social Enterprise Mark CIC (SEMCIC) developed the criteria and assessment process. This was achieved in consultation with the Supported Business Steering Group¹, to make sure criteria and assessment is relevant and appropriately robust.
- A full assessment for DEM requires an organisation to describe how it is meeting the criteria and submit supporting evidence in respect of this. Following this first-time full assessment against all the criteria, DEM status is subject to a regular review process, through which at least some aspects of this evidence will be re-examined and an organisation must confirm it has maintained all standards and licence terms. A full reassessment will be repeated at least once every three years. Each annual renewal will also depend upon payment of an annual licence fee.
- SEMCIC will oversee the assessments for DEM. Assessments will be reviewed by an Accreditation Panel, which is independent to SEMCIC. The Panel will comprise of individuals from different backgrounds and experience of disability or long-term health conditions. The Panel's role will be to consider and make judgements on assessments conducted, ensuring these conform with criteria expectations and setting new precedents for assessing eligibility going forward. This will include reviewing all assessments where set evidence requirements are not clearly met, and routinely examining a selection that have been approved by SEMCIC every year, to ensure consistent standards of assessment are being applied.
- Where an organisation does not currently meet any framework criteria, they may be awarded a 'Committed' DEM status, providing they:
 - can confirm their commitment to meet these criteria within a timeframe to be agreed with SEMCIC and approved by the Accreditation Panel;
 - hold Disability Confident status at 'committed', 'full' or 'leader' levels.

¹ The Supported Business Steering Group comprises members of the British Association of Supported Employment and other sector stakeholders. They provide an advocacy and lobbying role for supported businesses and promoting the employment of disabled people and long-term health conditions. This includes regular engagement with the Department of Work and Pensions, who manage funding in support of these interests, who were also involved in the consultation around the development of DEM.

The Eligibility Criteria

NB: For ease of reference, the terms “disability/disabilities” also includes “long-term health conditions” (as these terms are defined under the Equality Act 2010).

Overarching Purpose:

The Disability Employment Mark has been designed to recognise organisations that provide a supportive environment for disabled people, which go above and beyond what might be considered reasonable workplace adjustments.

Rationale

Some disabled people benefit from a culture of holistic support that may not generally be found in other workplaces.

General Principles and Evidence Requirements

An organisation must be able to provide evidence of a supportive environment, which is not typically available to people with most employers. The criteria that follow below describe the principles that underpin the above stated purpose, along with the nature of the evidence that can contribute towards demonstrating how each criterion is being met.

Reasonable adjustments should be first nature to the enterprise, who should be able to show how they go above and beyond what is expected by other employers.

Employees should expect and receive support for non-work-related issues, such as benefits, housing or health. A supportive culture should run through the supported business, its policies and procedures.

Criterion A.

Clearly stated social objectives, which include facilitating the employment of disabled people.

Rationale

Transparent objectives are essential to conveying the organisation's primary purpose of facilitating the employment of disabled people.

Relevant Evidence (not necessarily all compulsory)

Internal policy documents and plans that describe the purpose of having set up the supported business (possibly containing mission statement, or defining objectives);

Clear authority from a relevant leadership figure, director or senior manager etc. that the supported business is accountable to, that confirms the supported business is empowered to pursue this purpose for at least the current/forthcoming year, without any radical change to these underpinning objectives.

Guidance and Evidence Requirements

The social aim of facilitating the employment of disabled people will be clearly articulated within policies and plans. This may be directly relevant to how trading activities are being delivered by the supported business and/or an outcome of the trading activity.

If a supported business supports purposes or acts in a way that might reasonably be considered unethical or socially questionable, then this may render them ineligible.

Criterion B.

Demonstrate an effective business model.

Rationale

An organisation that demonstrates robust, inclusive and self-determining governance, together with sound, ethical business practices, and financial transparency, has a greater potential to offer security of employment for disabled people.

Relevant Evidence (not necessarily all compulsory)

Details of who is responsible for day to day management of the supported business, along with other directors/senior managers they are accountable to - clear lines of accountability and responsibility;

Business planning to meet both social and commercial objectives; Internal and external auditing processes; effective use and reporting of KPIs that inform decision making. At the very least, an organisation must be able to provide evidence of their trading history in the form of full financial statements, providing details of their annual income, as well as a cashflow forecast/budget plan for the following year.

Disability Confident Employer status; ethical policies and procedures; an equality and diversity is mandatory, but should be supported by other policies demonstrating ethical good practice, such as a living wage policy.

Guidance and Evidence Requirements

The Disability Confident scheme requires holders to have effective policies/procedures to attract, recruit and retain board members and disabled employees, to reinforce ethical positioning. Disability Confident Leader requires external validation and evidence of Challenge and Leadership.

Plans, policies etc. demonstrate intent and should ideally show how the service is financially sustainable for the life of the plan. This evidence should help confirm the supported business has sufficient autonomy and resources committed to deliver its stated objectives; the evidence should provide reassurance that the supported business will not be subject to local authority influences that will prevent it from pursuing its plans.

Effective business planning should drive social aims through all strategies and policies as well as setting, monitoring, and reporting against social and commercial KPIs. A business plan should ideally show how the supported business is a financially sustainable for the life of the plan. The existence of an equality and diversity policy is mandatory, but supported businesses should be able to refer to other policies and practices they have in place that help demonstrate their commitment to good business practice.

NB: the level of detail an organisation is able to provide in submitting evidence in respect of this criterion is not defined, as long as an organisation can show the policies and processes they have in place are fit for purpose. However, where any concerns may be identified, you may be required to submit additional information as may be appropriate to the needs and questions raised.

Criterion C.

Generate at least 50% of income from trading.

Rationale

50% trading income (in balance with all other annual income) is considered a minimum for organisations, who strive to fulfil the social purpose of employing disabled people, through their reliance on commercial activities and trading interests.

At the very least, an organisation must be able to provide evidence of their trading history in the form of previous financial reports, providing details of their annual income, as well as a cashflow forecast/budget plan for the following year.

Relevant Evidence (not necessarily all compulsory)

Formal business/ departmental financial reports that show figures for the last completed financial/reporting year. These reports should be authentic, i.e. ideally, they should not be deliberately produced for the purposes of assessment - they should be part of existing reporting mechanisms the supported business produces for its management purposes, to help be effective and profitable;

A breakdown of sources of income that helps confirm how much of total annual income is derived from sources of trade.

Guidance and Evidence Requirements

Financial reports should provide a breakdown of ALL sources of income and other payments received by the supported business, which confirms how much of this is derived from sources of trade (including contractual grants for employing disabled people).

If the service has been trading under a different guise, financial reports or accounts from the previous trading history may be considered, if the activity is the same.

Trading income most commonly derives from the sale of goods and other services. This is typically evident in the receipt of payments and other fees, income from contracts or other agreements.

General grants that are bid for to support an organisation's activities, which are for activities not specifically commissioned by the awarding body are unlikely to qualify as trading income and will count against this. These grants are typically funds awarded to an organisation in general support of their needs, which they have solicited for support towards. Such grants may often be paid by organisations who have broad altruistic or public motives in supporting general social purposes, rather than any specific social purpose. The grants may include payments in respect of service outputs, but more likely have been agreed and calculated in respect of the organisational resources required to provide the services concerned (e.g. premises, tools, equipment, staff etc.) i.e. service inputs.

However, some grant income may be classed as trading income. This mainly applies to grants that are primarily paid according to strict expectations of delivering specific activities i.e. service outputs. Such grants are typically subject to service level agreements or other contractually defined conditions, which effectively constitutes trading income. This includes grants which have been competitively tendered for, or directly commissioned by the awarding body, to deliver services that the awarding body typically has an obligation or specific purpose in providing or supporting.

Donations or similar bequests, count against the balance when calculating the proportion of annual income that may be classed as trade. Interest payments from investments (shares, bank accounts etc.) will also count against the balance of trading income. However, interest receivable in respect of financial services that an organisation delivers as part of their core trading purposes, is trading income.

Most types of investment and loan income can be discounted from turnover before calculating the balance between trade and other income, provided this does not significantly and consistently exceed that element which may be classed as trading income over the previous three years. (Capital loans and investments are an exception and will generally always be discounted, whatever the level of trading income).

If an organisation is on the cusp of the 50% trading requirement, but has received an unusual payment causing them to dip below this, then trading levels in previous years and plans for future years can be considered in determining whether or not they are primarily trade dependent.

Please seek further advice from SEMCIC regarding this guidance and the definition of trading income.

Criteria D.

The income and any operating surplus generated by the supported business, should primarily be used to facilitate the employment of disabled people, or in support of other socially beneficial/public purposes.

Rationale

The primary purpose of the organisation is facilitating the employment of disabled people, which includes being able to show how income and/or surplus is dedicated to achieving this, or if not, in support of other socially beneficial and public purposes.

Relevant Evidence (not necessarily all compulsory)

Formal business/ departmental financial reports that show figures for the last completed financial/reporting year. These reports should be authentic, i.e. ideally, they should not be deliberately produced for the purposes of assessment - they should be part of existing reporting mechanisms the supported business produces for its management purposes, to help be effective (including how it strives to be cost-effective, sustain its services whilst continuing to facilitate the employment of disabled people);

Confirmation of what has happened with any surpluses that may have been generated, i.e. retained within the supported business, or clawed back by the local authority, along with how these may have been used.

Guidance and Evidence Requirements

Financial reports should provide confirmation of what surplus the supported business generated, after all income and expenditure relevant to the management and delivery of business activities, has been accounted for.

A supported business should be able to confirm how any surplus monies generated through the services and other trading activities provided have been used in facilitating the employment of disabled people or long-term health conditions. This may include:

- if the delivery of trading activities in themselves facilitate such employment, through direct reinvestment/retention of profits in the supported business service;
- donated to other organisations or resources for facilitating such employment;
- if clawed back by the local authority, details of how the local authority has funded other interests relevant to the training and employment of disabled people (or other initiatives that serve distinct social and community initiatives).

The failure to generate profit/surplus does not constitute immediate failure to meet this criterion, but further scrutiny of the circumstances behind this may be required.

Criteria E.

In the event of the winding up or significant alteration of the supported business services, any assets should primarily be used to facilitate the employment of disabled people, or in support of other socially beneficial/public purposes.

Rationale

The primary purpose of the organisation is facilitating the employment of disabled people, which includes being able to show that assets continue to be used in support of this central purpose. In the event of the supported business winding up, any residual assets held, will continue to be used in support of this or other socially beneficial and public purposes.

Relevant Evidence (not necessarily all compulsory)

Formal business/ departmental financial reports that show figures for the last completed financial/reporting year. These reports should be authentic, i.e. ideally, they should not be deliberately produced for the purposes of assessment - they should be part of existing reporting mechanisms the supported business produces for its management purposes, to help be effective (including how it strives to be cost-effective, sustain its services whilst continuing to facilitate the employment of disabled people);

Confirmation of what has happened with any surpluses that may have been generated, i.e. retained within the supported business, or clawed back by the local authority, along with how these may have been used.

Guidance and Evidence Requirements

In the event of the winding up of the supported business, any outstanding service debts are payable before any residual assets are finally calculated. This includes both financial and physical assets that otherwise remain.

“Significant” alterations to the service mean any action that would prevent the service from continuing to meet the requirements of DEM, as defined within this criteria document.

Supported businesses will be asked to provide evidence of the continuing commitment of the local authority to the aims of the supported business with the self-assessment form they are asked to complete each year, following their annual licence renewal.

Criterion F.

The employment of disabled people is supported and proactively facilitated at all levels and in all aspects of the business.

Rationale

The actions a supported business take to facilitate the employment of disabled people demonstrates how an organisation is an exemplar employer in showing the value of employing disabled people.

Relevant Evidence (not necessarily all compulsory)

Activities, initiatives and investment in resources that demonstrate how the organisation has provided a supportive environment for disabled people, which go above and beyond what might be considered reasonable workplace adjustments.

Staff development planning and reporting.

Staff turnover statistics.

Case studies of support packages.

Published annual statistics, including breakdown of disabled people employed in different grades and departments, including at board level.

Guidance and Evidence Requirements

This is the key indicator as to whether a service is committed to the concept of inclusivity of disabled people in the workplace. Best practice would be to provide a breakdown by disability/ health condition as evidence of an inclusive working environment.

All employees with a disability or long-term health condition should have a personal development plan. Staff turnover should be monitored to measure employee satisfaction but also to ensure a healthy turnover to prevent a stagnant workforce. Employees should be supported to find ongoing employment, the success of which should be monitored; best practice will also show an element of people at least becoming employed within an Intermediate Labour Market (ILM).

A supported business must be able to explain and justify the level of disabled employment they have achieved, compared with their total workforce, along with what obstacles there are to performing better, as well as what they do to try and overcome these.
